Introduction

When we began the search for our ancestry in the year 1902, we had little knowledge of anyone back of our great-grandfather, Andrew Wright, of Shoreham, Vermont (born 1763, died 1833), and had no idea of the interesting search that was to follow our first efforts in this line, or of the length of time that might elapse before the results now attained should be written out for the benefit of generations to follow:

We wish to acknowledge the valuable assistance received from various sources, and the kindly encouragement of interested kinsmen. We will mention:

First, Rodney P. Wright of Cambridge, Mass., who is descended from Sir John Wright of Kelvedon Hall, Essex, England, and is the author of a history of his branch of the Wright family. His help has been invaluable to us in many ways.

Second, W. Farrand Felch, Editor of the Genealogical column of The Hartford Times. He has given much space to our queries and their answers, and many personal suggestions.

Third, James G. Taylor of So. Glastonbury, Conn., who is a descendant of the emigrant, Thomas Wright (1639-40), has furnished many bits of interesting history.

Fourth, And there are many others, too numerous to mention here, who have given their time to research that we might have statistics and items of historical value from various branches of the family.

Our great-grandfather, Andrew Wright, was a soldier of the Revolutionary War, and came from Lenox, Mass., to Shoreham, Vt., in 1785. There was a tradition that his father or grandfather was a sea-captain, named Samuel Wright, and that he died at sea. This tradition was handed down in several branches of the family.

Learning that the Addison County, Vermont, records showed that Andrew Wright had applied for a pension in 1832, we wrote to the Bureau of Pensions, Washington, D. C., asking if the birth-place and parentage of Andrew was given in his application, and received answer, dated July 25th, 1903, giving his military record, and these remarks: "Soldier's birth-place is not given, but he states that before coming to Vermont, he had always lived in Lenox, Mass.

We then wrote to the Town Clerk of Lenox, asking for a record of birth, together with names of his brothers and sisters, also of his father and mother. We received answer, Aug. 15th, 1903, which gave the names of Andrew's father and mother as Samuel and Mary Wright, and the names and dates of birth of their children from 1757 to 1765, and of the children born to Samuel and Mehitabel (second wife) from 1769 to 1780. A search for the record of Samuel's death at this time was unsuccessful, but later we found from other sources that he died Oct., 1789, aged 67 years.

Mary, his first wife, died Aug. 18th, 1767, no age given. There is no record, as far as we can find, of the death of Mehitabel.

We learned that Samuel Wright of Lenox formerly lived in Goshen, Conn., and the births of several of his children are recorded there, some of whom are also recorded in Lenox. We account for this double record by the fact that Samuel assisted in the organization of the town of Lenox and was appointed its first Town Clerk, and naturally made a record of his children's births there.

Now began a search for the parentage of Samuel of Lenox. One Samuel Wright, eldest son of Capt. Samuel Wright, was born in Wethersfield, Conn., in 1722, but there was no further record of him in that town and he was believed to have settled elsewhere.

The town of Lebanon, Conn., gave us the records of three Samuel Wrights, none of whom seemed to fit our case; and for a number of years the search yielded small returns. Then, remembering a visit to our family, about the year 1863, by some of the relatives from Ohio—and having lost all trace of them—we determined to get into communication with them if possible. Finally, in the fall of 1908, after making inquiries among the nearest relatives, we found there was an old photograph of one of these cousins in the possession of our uncle Freeman Wright's widow, with the address, Sidney, Ohio, on it. We then wrote the City Clerk in that place, inquiring about the family. Through him we were soon in communication with them. They gave us much valuable information about their branch of the family, but were unable to give Samuel Wright's parentage as their old records and valuable papers had some of them been lost in moving and some destroyed by fire, but a "Short Memorial of My Life," written from memory by Gideon Wright (son of Samuel Wright of Lenox and the ancestor of the Ohio branch), gave us some interesting history, and a letter written by his brother Josiah in 1865 gives a good account of the children in their father's family.

Our uncle, Freeman G. Wright, visited the cousins in Ohio in 1849 and brought home with him a record—copied apparently from the one which was lost or burned—of the earlier generations of our family. He died in 1900, before we began our search, and his family thought the record had been loaned and lost. However, in the summer of 1909 they found it in an old pocketbook which had been stowed away in an old trunk containing letters and papers of bygone years. Fortunately, this furnished the "missing link" in our history, and reads literally as follows:

"The family of Jno. Wright taken for one, or the first generation.

"The sixth or seventh generation back was three brothers that came from England in the time of persecution. (Proof) A bed-staff retained by the oldest son.

"The fifth generation was a sea captain, the oldest of the family. (Proof) The retaining of the bed-staff. He died at sea, was brought to New London, Conn., and buried. He had five children, two sons and three daughters. His name was Samuel.

"The fourth of the generation by the name of Samuel, the oldest son of the sea captain, lived first in Wethersfield, Conn., then moved to Lenox, in Mass. Had twelve children; eight boys. Died and was buried in the latter place sixty years ago next month, aged sixty-seven. Was ten years old at the death of his father. His oldest son was called Samuel. He was a farmer.

"The third in line by the name of Andrew, was the fifth son. Was born in Lenox, Mass., March 11th, 1763, and went to Shoreham, Vt., in the 23rd year of his age, in May, and came back in the fall, and moved with his next younger brother, Ebenezer, the next spring, to Shoreham, Vermont."

The second "link" is from the town records of Wethersfield, Connecticut: "Capt. Samuel Wright, Jr., son of Serg't Samuel Wright, was born 1692/1693. Married Abigail, dau of Jonathan Goodrich, 2d Jan'y 1718. Their children were:

Samuel, born May 28th, 1722.

Abigail, born March 11th, 1724.

Rebecca, born Sept. 7th, 1726.

Lucy, born Jan. 26th, 1729.

Moses, born July 3rd, 1731."

The third "link" comes from the "Diary of Joshua Hempsted of New London, Connecticut," in which we have this item: "Capt. Samuel Wright, from Barbadoes, brought in dead, June 7th, 1732."

A comparison of these records establishes the fact that our Samuel of Lenox was the son of Samuel the sea captain, and that he was born in Wethersfield, Conn., in 1722. Referring to the memorandum made by F. G. Wright during his visit to Ohio in 1849, we find: "The fourth of the generation by the name of Samuel — died and was buried in the latter place sixty years ago next month, aged sixty-seven." Sixty years prior to 1849 would give us the year of his death as 1789, and as he was sixty-seven years old when he died, the date of his birth must have been 1722, which agrees with the Wethersfield record given above. There is also the statement in the Ohio record that he was ten years old at the death of his father, which agrees with the New London account of the captain's death in 1732.

We found that his mother, Abigail Dickinson, and sister, Miss Rebecca Wright, were buried in Lenox, Mass. Their grave-stones are still standing. The will of Miss Rebecca, recently found, shows that she made her home with her nephew Samuel. In Gideon Wright's "Memorial," he gives his birth as April, 1775, and states: "My father died in October and the spring I was fifteen (i. e., 1790) I went to Shoreham, Vermont, to live with my brother Andrew." The probate records give the date of settlement of Samuel's estate as January 5th, 1790. Samuel Wright, Jr., Administrator.

Thus one account verifies the other, and from this point we can trace our line back to Thomas Wright, the emigrant, 1639-40, by the Wethersfield Town Records, Stiles "Ancient Wethersfield," and from other sources.

Records from England give a direct lineage from John Wright (died 1551) to the birth of Thomas, 1610, and this, in connection with the records in America to the present time, completes our family history for a period covering about four hundred years.

The following is a tradition that has been handed down in the Wright family (Thomas Wright was doubtless one of the sons referred to):

“Once upon a time, away years in the past, three strong young men were about to emigrate to America. Their old father in bidding them ‘good-by’ said: ‘I am too old to go with you, but I am glad my sons can go.’ Then he took a shillalah and cut it into three equal parts, or lengths, and gave one to each of his sons. ‘Keep these,’ he said, ‘in remembrance of the old home. When you grow old let each give to his oldest son, and let him give to his oldest son, and so on. If there be no son, give to oldest daughter.’”

Mrs. Stewart of Ohio, a descendant of Thomas Wright and a grand-daughter of Gideon Wright, to whom we are indebted for this tradition, has one of these pieces of wood in her possession, of which she writes as follows: “When my father (son of Gideon Wright) was on a visit to his kin in Vermont, in the year 1852, or about that time, he received from his aunt, Mary Hawley, one of these pieces of wood. He brought it home to my grandfather, who would have nothing to do with it, so it was given to the oldest daughter, Albina; now she is gone I have it in my possession. I do not know the wood, it is dark red in color, about one foot long and two inches in diameter. It has been used as a rolling pin.” We do not understand how it happened to be handed down among the younger children of Samuel of Lenox, instead of the family of Samuel, Jr., the oldest son, but give the story as it came to us.

We beg the kind indulgence of our readers, knowing there are many imperfections in our work, and possibly inaccuracies have crept in, but the records have been verified and as far as we know are correct. We have done all in our power to make it interesting as well as instructive, and hope future generations will be benefited by our labors.

Chapter I

THE WRIGHTS IN ENGLAND

*Abstract from "History of the English People,"
By John Richard Green.*

"During the period including the years between 1485-1509, great events were transpiring in the world's history. It was a time of war and treason and the reign of King Henry VII was a stormy one. But great as were the issues of Henry's policy, it shrinks into insignificance if we turn from it to the weighty movements which were then stirring the minds of men.

"The world was passing through changes more momentous than any it had witnessed since the victory of Christianity and the fall of the Roman Empire. Its physical bounds were suddenly enlarged. The discoveries of Copernicus revealed to man the secret of the universe. Portuguese mariners doubled the Cape of Good Hope and anchored their fleets in the ports of India. Columbus crossed the ocean and added a New World to the Old. Sebastian Cabot, starting from the port of Bristol, threaded his way among the icebergs of Labrador.

"This contact with new lands and new races of men awoke the slumbering intelligence of Europe into activity. Books of voyages were written and widely read, and at the very hour when the intellectual energy of the Middle Ages had sunk into exhaustion, the capture of Constantinople by the Turks, and the flight of its Greek scholars to Italy, opened to the people the science and literature of an older world. The Greek scholars were welcomed in Italy, and Florence, so long the home of freedom and art, became the home of an intellectual revival.

"Italy's merchant ships brought manuscripts from the East as their most precious freight. Foreign scholars flocked over the Alps to learn Greek (which was the key to the new knowledge) from the Florentine teachers. Grocyn, of Oxford College, was perhaps the first Englishman who studied under the Greek exile, Chalcondylas, and on his return in 1491, delivered lectures in Oxford, which mark the opening of a new period in the history of England.

"Physical as well as literary activity awoke with the re-discovery of the teachers of Greece, and the continuous progress of English Science may be dated from the day when Linacre, another Oxford student, returned from the lectures of the Florentine Politan to revive the older tradition of medicine, by his translation of Galen.

"The printing-press was making books the common property of all, and in the last thirty years of the Fifteenth Century, ten thousand editions of books and pamphlets are said to have been published throughout Europe. All the Latin authors were accessible to every student before the century closed. All the more valuable authors of Greece were published in the twenty years that followed."

About the time these events were transpiring, there was born in Brentwood, Essex, England, John Wright, who was the earliest known progenitor of the family whose history is contained in these pages. He was granted a baronetcy June 20th, 1509, and was thus entitled to a seat in Parliament. He was lord of Kelvedon Hall, which he purchased in 1538. He died in 1551.

WRIGHT is a name derived from the Anglo-Saxon "wryhta." Like the Latin word "faber," it means a workman of any kind, especially an artificer in wood or hard materials.

From genealogical writings and town histories we have gleaned the following in reference to the family characteristics:

"The Wrights were a highly intelligent, studious family; supporters of religion and good order, and earnest patriots in the Revolutionary struggle." (From Hibbard's History of Conn., page 261.)

"Characteristic of the family are truth and honor. 'I would sooner accept the word of a Wright, than to believe most men on their oath.' Rare executive ability, a strong sense of justice, firmness combined with courtesy and affability are other traits, to which may be added patriotism, military ardor, and a self-sacrificing spirit. Length of years have been rewards for upright living, and the Wrights have numbered many centenarians in their ranks."

It is said of one of these old men, that when he had reached the age of ninety years, he went out in the field to work with younger men, and sat down and cried when he found that he could not keep up with the others.

The first Wright of whom we have any record, was John of Kelvedon Manor, Essex, England. He died 1551. His second son was Robert of the Moat House, lord of the Manor of Great and Little Ropers. His direct descendant was Thomas, whom we find clerk to the General Court at Wethersfield, Connecticut, in 1643.

In 1581, “John Glascock of Roxwell, Gent. John Wright of Kelvedon, Gent. and Thomas Laike of Waltham, Holy Cross yeoman.” were the supervisors appointed under the will of William Glascock of Fifield yeoman. Dated April 6th, 1579.

Manor of Ropers, Brook Hall or the Moat House

Brentwood is situated about nineteen miles north-east of London. A fine asphalt roadway leads from this place through a charming country of meadow and woodland and connects with Brook Street, in South Weald.

Brook Street is perhaps the oldest part of the parish; it takes its name from the two little rivulets, which, rising in the sandy hill above, and forming a junction at its bottom, flow into the small river of the Ingrebourne.

BROOK STREET WITH INN.

In this street there are many evidences of antiquity. There is Wayside Inn with its gable ends and its massive chimney stacks, where many a noble lord and lady in olden times have rested for the night when posting from the great city to their homes in eastern counties.

There, too, are the traces of the old Leper Hospital, which was wont to throw open its doors for the sick and afflicted, attracted hither by the mineral spring, still in existence, whose waters were thought to be efficacious for this terrible scourge.

There is also the Manor House, with its broad moat. It is evident that the old family of Wrights was then living in Brook Street—doubtless in the Moat House. They held the Manors of Great and Little Ropers. The Manor House is still standing (1910) and is on the left side of the London road, going to Brentwood. The estate extended from Brook Street to Great Warley and descended from Ropers to Ipgrave, in 1517; from Ipgrave to Lawrence; from Lawrence to Wright. It was originally called "Manor of Ropers" from the name of the first owner, Henry Roper, Gentleman, Pursuivant to Queen Catherine of Arragon, who let a lease of the place, lands and mill here. Constance Roper passed this away in 1517 to William Ipgrave.

For many generations it was owned by the Wrights; covering a period dating from the time of purchase by John Wright, before 1551, to John Wright, who sold it in 1771, to Mr. Wheatly of London.

While it was owned by the Wrights, it was called "Brook Hall." It is now called the "Moat House" because of a moat that once surrounded it, only a small part of which is now in existence.

FRONT OF HOUSE.

It is not definitely known when the house was built, but in the rear there is a chimney still doing service which is said to have been built in the time of King Henry VII—1485-1509.

At the present time (1910) a hawthorne hedge, bordering the lawn shuts off the view of the house from the street. A winding driveway leads from the gate to the front of the house, passing through the lawn, which is interspersed with shrubs and trees, giving the old manse a beautiful setting.

The house is built of brick, painted yellow; two stories, with the upper overhanging the lower. Two dormer windows are in the roof, which is covered with flat tile. Three bay-windows adorn the front with lattice work between on which vines are growing. A small porch over the front door, supported by one pillar on each side, is very quaint. A very beautiful old-fashioned brass knocker ornaments the front door.

ROSE GARDEN, FROM WINDOW ON LANDING.

The hall is narrow, long and dark. The walls are finished with ancient square oak panels, the dark coloring of which is very rich in appearance. The stairway at the right side of the hall has a landing with window looking out on a fine old rose garden.

From the landing the stairs divide going either way to the rooms above. In many of these upper rooms the old oak beams may be seen which were used for the framework of the house when originally built. At the right of the hall is the library, with great black oak beams, furrowed with age; an open fire-place has been recently added to the room to correspond with the ancient beams.

Just back of the library are the two kitchens, which appear to be very ancient, with a large open fire-place and brick oven, formerly used for cooking.

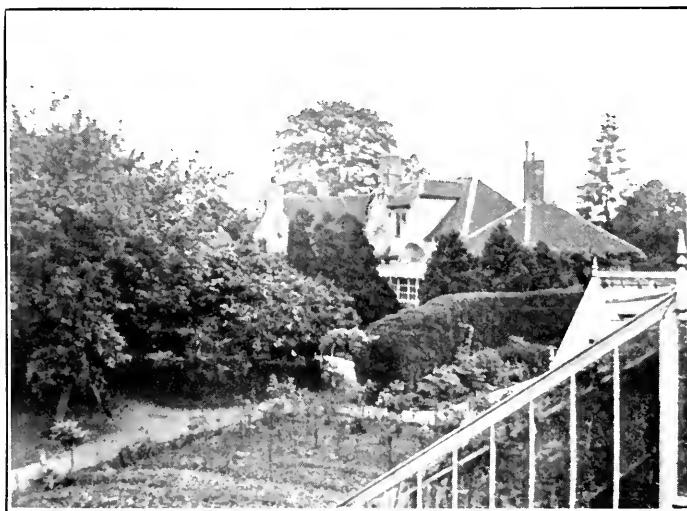

CORNER OF LIBRARY.

Opposite the library is a drawing room, and beyond this a large dining-room extending the width of the house; it is said to be paneled with oak beams underneath the plaster. At the rear end of this room casement windows open into a conservatory, from which there is an entrance into the garden. The garden is very charming with its gravel walks, rose bushes, flower beds, shrubs and graceful trees.

CONSERVATORY AND CHIMNEY BUILT ABOUT 1500.

HOT-HOUSES AND GARDEN.

There are a number of hot-houses where tomatoes, grapes and other fruits are grown. Two tenant-houses and a stable, all of ancient appearance, are also in the rear of the house.

The portion of the moat remaining is situated a short distance from the rear of the house and this bit is very picturesque, with the reflection of the trees and sky on the surface of its water. This house with its moat and draw-bridge was evidently a stronghold, when men went out clad in armor and armed with cross-bows and battle-axes. There is said to be a written history or story about the old Moat House in England, but it is not obtainable at present.

St. Peter's Church, where many of the Wright family were baptized and buried, is a little over one mile from Brook Street. The country along the roadside is charming. This church, in center of the old cemetery, is a fine building, of flint and cobble-stone, with crimson ramblers growing over it. The church had become so dilapidated that most of it had to be taken down and rebuilt, but fortunately the massive embattled tower of Kentish ragstone, built about 1505, was left just as it was erected. Probably no other Essex Church, so far removed from the sea, has a rag-stone tower.

The south door, also unchanged, is Norman, with bold zig-zag mouldings on its arch and columns, foliated capitals, and chequered tympanums. Its iron work is old and curious. The south porch is of timber. There is also a restored timber lych-gate. There is a new screen of excellent workmanship. The carved stone font is dated 1662.

The altar and the rest of the church is new; the photo is of the present altar. Only one grave-stone of the Wrights was left in the church, those of John and Robert having been removed when the church was remodeled. Some of the piers of the old structure also remain.

St. Mary's Church at Kelvedon is about three miles distant from South Weald, and in this church John Wright and his wife Olive lie buried. They have monuments of brass erected to their memory. The Wrights of South Weald were descended from the Wrights of Kelvedon Hatch. Three members of this family settled very early in Weald. "Wrights Bridge" across the Ingrebourne, was named after one of them who formerly lived in that part of the parish.

South Weald is very much indebted to this family of Wrights. In 1586 John Wright gave a rent charge of £2 for the repairs of the church, and again in 1602 another John Wright, or perhaps the same, bequeathed to the parish a house in Halstead, the rent of which is distributed by the church wardens in bread. At a still later date (1754), Sarah Wright gave a sum of money, now invested in consuls, for the industrious poor of the church. It is said that the church today is receiving rentals from the bequest of John Wright of Brook Street.

Chapter II

THE WRIGHTS IN AMERICA

Abstract from "History of the United States," by John Fiske.

In the course of the year 1636 the beginnings of Connecticut were made. The Dutch had already founded the colony which afterward became New York, and they laid claim to all the territory as far east as the Connecticut River. In the summer of 1633 the Dutch built a fort about where Hartford now stands, and that summer some Pilgrims from Plymouth went up the river in a small ship with the frame of a wooden house aboard. As they approached the fort at Hartford, the Dutch told them to turn back or they would be fired upon; but the Pilgrims kept on and the Dutch did not fire. The Pilgrims set up their house on the site of Windsor and began trading with the Indians. During the year 1636, twenty vessels came from England to Massachusetts, bringing three thousand settlers.

There was plenty of room near Boston for all, if they had been able to agree on questions of government, but many people thought the clergy were getting too much power, and disapproved the policy of allowing none but the church members to vote. These feelings were especially strong in Dorchester, Watertown and Cambridge (Newton).

Thomas Hooker, pastor at Cambridge, believed that the whole people ought to be governed by the whole people, while Winthrop believed the whole people ought to be governed by a part of the people. We do not hear of any bitter quarrel between the people who thought like Winthrop and those who thought like Hooker. What happened was that in 1636 a great part of the congregation of Cambridge, Watertown and Dorchester journeyed to the Connecticut Valley, where the Cambridge people, led by Hooker, founded Hartford; the Dorchester people settled Windsor, and those from Watertown settled Wethersfield.

On page 7, Vol. 1 of Printed Colonial Records of Connecticut, is the following: "It is ordered that the plantacon nowe called Newtowne, shal be called & named by the name of Harteford towne; likewise the plantacon nowe called Watertowne shal be called & named Wythersfield." This was at a meeting held February 21st, 1636 (old style).

Abstract from "Hollister's History of Connecticut," Volume First.

The whole of the next year the Watertown settlers in little parties of a few families continued to make additions to the gallant little company of pioneers at Wethersfield.

Of all the towns belonging to Connecticut, Wethersfield seems from the first to have been most involved in difficulties, civil and ecclesiastical. The settlement had been commenced by a high-spirited and very excitable people, impatient of control, delighting in the most daring enterprises and stimulated rather than alarmed at the dangers that beset them. This restlessness of the citizens of Wethersfield was attributable, among other causes, to the fact that they left Massachusetts without a clergyman to lead them.

Her people had left Mr. Phillips behind them in Watertown, and in the hurry to emigrate they forgot their discipline, and for a while broke their ranks in the eager pursuit of treasures so dazzling to the eye. Hence the unhappy troubles and strifes during the first few years after they established themselves. Then a division occurred and some of the settlers with their families removed to Stamford.

Among the principal gentlemen of Wethersfield who remained, or soon after arrived (1640), were the names: Welles, Wyllys, Talcott, Goodrich, Hallister, Wright, Kimberly, Kilbourn, Hale, Treat, Belden, Denning, Smith and Bacon.

Most of the proprietors owned land on the eastern bank of the Connecticut, in that part of the town now embraced within the boundaries of Glastonbury, and several of them built upon these estates and removed there long before the incorporation of the last named town in 1696. Almost all of these families intermarried before 1700, and from their blood have sprung many of the brightest ornaments of Connecticut.

It has been thought by many people who have had little opportunity to form correct estimates of the people of Connecticut, that they sprung from a low and vulgar parentage. The want of monuments over the graves of most of them; the humble houses that they dwelt in; the plain clothing they wore, and strange to tell, the fact that they almost all labored with their hands, have been seized upon as so many marks that they came from the undistinguishable crowd of English peasantry, whose fathers from age to age had been the lowest subjects of feudal villeiny.

Never was a conclusion more hastily formed or supported by so few facts. The early planters of Connecticut were neither serfs nor the sons of serfs. So far from this were many of them that they could trace their descent backward through the line of the Knights and Gentlemen of England, by means of the Heralds' visitations, Parish records and County genealogies, to say nothing of family pedigrees that were often transmitted from generation to generation, particularly in the line of eldest sons, to a remote day, and some of them to that wavering horizon where history loses itself in fable.

From actual examination it appears that more than four-fifths of the early landed proprietors of Hartford, Wethersfield and Windsor, belonged to families that had Arms granted to them in Great Britain.

THOMAS WRIGHT

Extracts from "Ancient Wethersfield" by Henry M. Stiles.

Thomas Wright, Esq., was born in England, November 19th, 1610. He came first probably to Watertown, Massachusetts. Was of the Massachusetts Court of Assistants before the Colonial Government was established in Boston, and removed to Wethersfield, Conn., probably about 1639. He was recognized as a man of influence and high standing. He was deputy to the General Court of Connecticut, 1643; Selectman, 1658; Commissioner on Town Lines, etc. He was made freeman May 11th, 1654, and his name is on the 1669 list as freeman. He and Enoch Buck were Constables in 1668-9, and he was on court jury at Hartford the same year. He also seems to have been prominent in the church fight, which led many to remove to Hadley, Mass.

He had one homestead, three and one-half acres, west side of High Street, on which his house was built, probably before 1639. Robert Abbott, north, and Samuel Clark, south. A house, lot of three acres, is recorded to him in Wethersfield Dec. 11th, 1640. Another homestead received, 1654; a house, barn and five acres of land, bought of Samuel Hale, on west side of Back Street, between Luke Hitchcock, north, and land belonging to Matthew Griswold, south. He bought the Richard Belden lot of twenty and one-half acres in west field in 1654. He became, by purchase, the owner of a large part of the Great Island, thereafter known as Wright's Island, and which he mostly gave to his sons Thomas and James, who bought other parcels of the island.

WRIGHT'S ISLAND

Extract from "Ancient Wethersfield" by Henry M. Stiles.

Wright's Island, about six or seven miles below Hartford, lay a little north of an east and west line drawn through Wethersfield.

Thomas Wright was given a grant of land which took in a part of the island, and he increased his part of it by purchase. He gave this to his sons Thomas and James. The latter increased his part of it by purchase, and left most of it to his son James, who acquired nearly all of it and built a house there in 1711. He had a ferry of his own, and a dock was built near the north end of the island.

There was a noted fishing place there for salmon and shad.

As time went on, the stream east of the island filled up, and a division of its bed was made by arbitration between James Wright and adjacent owners. About 1780-90, what was known as the island was set off from Wethersfield to Glastonbury, which had been made a town in 1696. The river began to wear away the upper part of the island and continued to do so until the dock finally appeared on the other side of the river, and the Wright living there at that time went and claimed the land about it as his own, and received it, too. At the present time the river flows over what was the island. The house was removed to Glastonbury, and is now occupied. "A ten-thousand dollar farm gone into the river!"

The island was called by the Indians "Mannahannock" ("Great Laughing Place"). The Indians used to meet there and have games and wrestlings.

Lucy Wright, born Jan. 26th, 1729.

Moses Wright, born July 3rd, 1731; died Dec. 20th, 1822; aged 90.

Samuel Wright (8), the sea-captain, was born in Wethersfield, Conn., Jan. 6th, 1692-3, and died at sea June 6-7th, 1732. His home was in Wethersfield, Conn. He was captain and part owner of a sloop running between New London (or Rocky Hill), Conn., and Barbadoes, West Indies. The following description of Rocky Hill at this period, is from "Stiles Ancient Wethersfield," Vol. II, page 903:

"It would be difficult for the residents of the present Rocky Hill village to realize what a scene of bustling activity old Stepney Landing presented during the period of its commercial prosperity. There were eight or nine stores about the landing, whose owners were owners of vessels being built in the adjoining shipyard, or taking in goods, or unloading at the docks.

"These stores all dealt in so-called West India goods—rum, brandy, wines, sugars, teas, molasses, salt, sea-coal, etc.; and all imported directly. Among their exports were: horses, cattle, hogs, hay, hoop-poles, barrel-staves, salted beef, pork and fish, potatoes, onions, etc."

In 1730, Nathaniel Stillman and Samuel Wright, Jr., are mentioned as each part owner of a sloop.

From the diary of Joshua Hempstead, of New London, Conn., covering a period of 47 years, September, 1711, to November, 1758:

"June 1st, Thursday, Fair.

"June the 7th, Wednesday, Received a letter from my son Stephen, by Captain — from Barbadoes. Samuel Wright who was — belonging to Wethersfield, brought in dead, June 6th, 1732."

He is mentioned in his father's will, made April 8th, 1734, as having lately died. His inventory was taken June 28th, 1732, by Daniel Wright and Jonathan Belding, and administration was granted the widow the day before.

Inventory of movable estate, £1573-16/05d.

Remaining for distribution, £1434-11/03d.

For the widow, £478-03/09d.

For Samuel, oldest son, £318-15/10d.

To the remaining children, each, £159-07/11d.

His inventory included: "rum, sugar, and negro and indian slaves."

Before the 13th of August, 1741, the widow had changed her condition by becoming the wife of Noadiah Dickinson, made her exhibit and Noadiah moved the court that her right of dowry might be set out to her. Moses Wright, the youngest son, was then aged ten years, and Samuel, the oldest son, nineteen years old. Samuel chose Jonathan Goodrich as his guardian; Moses and Rebecca, aged fourteen, chose their step-father Dickinson as their guardian, and went with their mother, to live in Goshen, Conn. We have no further record of the daughters, Abigail and Lucy. Noadiah Dickinson died in 1745.

Probate records. Manwaring's digest. Inventory of estate of Noadiah Dickinson, £2200-9/03d. Taken July 11th, 1745. Administration to widow Abigail, who gave bond with Samuel Wright, in £800 old tenor.

March 4th, 1746, Benoni Hills of Goshen was interrogated before the court with respect to withholding and concealing some of the movable estate of Noadiah Dickinson.

April 5th, 1748, widow Abigail moves her dowry of real estate be set out to her. One third of the real estate was then set out to her. Mrs. Abigail Wright Dickinson afterwards removed to Lenox, Mass., with her son Samuel and daughter, Miss Rebecca Wright. She died there and the grave-stone, which is still standing, has this record:

"This Monument is erected
by Miss Rebecca Wright, in memory of
Mrs. Abigail Dickinson,
Her Mother.
July 10th, 1777."

The different versions of the tradition of the sea captain, which have been handed down in our family, are as follows:

First—In the Ohio record:

"The fifth generation was a sea captain, the oldest of the family. (Proof: The retaining of the bed-staff.) He died at sea; was brought to New London, Conn., and buried. He had five children, two sons and three daughters. His name was Samuel."

Second—In the family of Andrew Wright, son of Samuel (9):

“Andrew was a son or grand-son of Samuel, the sea captain who died at sea.”

Third—In the family of Joseph Wright, son of Samuel (9):

“His (Joseph’s) grandfather was captain of a vessel at sea, and they have a tradition that he was lost at sea in a storm, and the night he was lost his wife had a vision or dream; she saw him and he was sailing very fast. They lived in a sea-shore town in Connecticut.”

Fourth—In the family of Gideon Wright, son of Samuel (9):

They have a tradition that Samuel was born at sea.

“I” The will of Rebecca Wright, daughter of Samuel (8) says in part:

“Now residing in the family of Mr. Samuel Wright, of Stockbridge” (probably her nephew).

Gives tomb-stone to herself and mother, Abigail Dickinson; commands that her real estate in Wethersfield be sold to pay her debts, the remainder to be divided between Lydia Wright, Rebecca Wright, Polly Wright, Daniel Ives Wright, and Josiah Wright. (These are the names of her nephews’ children.) Orders that Samuel be discharged from paying a note owing her by him, and gives to him a silver spoon, for life, and after to his son Daniel Ives Wright, etc.”

The inscription on her grave-stone in Lenox reads:

“In memory of Miss Rebecca Wright,
Who died May 13th, 1813. Aged 86.”

MOSES WRIGHT, son of Samuel (8) and Abigail Goodrich Wright.

Born July 3rd, 1731; died Dec. 20th, 1822; aged 90 years.

Married Thankful, daughter of Nathaniel Norton of Suffield, Conn., Oct. 14th, 1760. They went to Colebrook, Conn., about 1769; later removed to Chenango Co., New York. In the South Cemetery in Colebrook, is this record:

“Deacon Moses Wright, died Dec. 20th, 1822; aged 90.

“Thankful, wife of Moses, died Aug. 18th, 1821; aged 79.”

CHILDREN

Thankful Wright, married Luke Roberts.

Chapter III

SAMUEL WRIGHT (9) OF WETHERSFIELD AND GOSHEN, CONN., AND LENOX, MASS.

From this point in our history, we take the family of Samuel Wright (9), tracing all his descendants, as far as we have been able to find them, from generation to generation down to the present time.

There are some unavoidable omissions, and mistakes may be found in names and dates; but we have put in statistics just as they were sent to us and we would be glad of corrections from those who may have records which are reliable.

We have used abbreviations as follows: "b" for births; "m" for married; "d" for died. In numbering, we have given numbers only to those having issue, or a war record, and have shown relationship between father and son or daughter, in the headings of families.

Where there is little known about a person, that little is stated with the record of birth, and the person is not mentioned again. A complete index, giving every name in the book will be found at the end of the book.

SAMUEL WRIGHT (9), OF LENOX, MASS.

(9) SAMUEL WRIGHT, son of Samuel (8) and Abigail Wright.

Born May 28th, 1722, in Wethersfield, Conn.; died Oct., 1789, in Lenox, Mass.

Married Mary, about 1747-8. She died Aug. 18th, 1767; no age given.

Samuel married (second) Mehitable —, before 1769.

Residence, Lenox, Mass.

Children of Samuel (9) and Mary Wright were:

(10) Samuel Wright, b. Jan. 1749; d. Sept. 15th, 1814, in sixty-sixth year.

Thankful Wright, m. Andrew Loomis of Egremont, Massachusetts.

Josiah Wright, b. Apr. 1st, 1753; d. May 29th, 1776, in 24th year.

(12) Ebenezer Wright, b. Apr. 29th, 1765; d. Jan. 4th, 1845; aged 80 years.

Children of Samuel (9) and Mehitable Wright were:

(13) Joseph Wright, b. Dec. 17th, 1769; d. Jan. 24th, 1851, in 81st year.

(13a) Mary Aurelia Wright, b. May 7th, 1772; m. ——— Hawley, living in 1865.

(14) Gideon Wright, b. Apr. 17th, 1775; d. Aug., 1862; aged 87 years.

Josiah Wright, b. Aug. 2nd, 1780; d. after 1866; m.

—: no issue.

Lenox, Mass., was settled about 1750, but was not organized as a town until 1767. Samuel Wright (9) was elected the first Town Clerk and Samuel, Jr., (10) tything man. Samuel (9) assisted in the organization of the town. He was a prominent man in the town, and probably served in the Army of the Revolution. Estate settled by son Samuel, Jr., Administrator, Jan. 5th, 1790. Inventory, £107. Debts, £54. Samuel's charges as Administrator, £7. (Pittsfield, Mass., Probate Register No. 1441.)

His widow, Mehitable, (sons) Joseph Wright, Andrew and Ebenezer of Shoreham, Vt.; Andrew Loomis of Egremont and Thankful, his wife; John Lightbody of Philiptown, state of New York, and Abigail, his wife, quit-claim to Samuel Wright of Stockbridge, all their interest in a tract of land in Lenox, being all the land that Samuel (9) owned in Lenox; deed dated Feb. 9th, 1791.

We have been unable to find a record of his marriage to Mary —, or of the births of the two oldest children, Samuel and Thankful, and have taken the date of Samuel, Jr.'s birth from the record of death minus his age at that time, as it appears on his grave-stone in Lenox.

Samuel (9) appears to have removed to Goshen, Litchfield Co., Conn., after the births of these two children, and records in that town give the births of five more, viz.: Josiah, Ozias, Abigail, Ozias 2nd and Andrew. Three of these births are also recorded in Lenox, Mass., to which town he removed before 1766, as his first deed was recorded that year, and has in it "formerly of Goshen, Conn."

Some have thought that Samuel (9) went away from Lenox for a time (perhaps to live with his son Samuel, Jr., in Stockbridge), afterwards returning to Lenox, where he died in 1789.

In the Dwight Collection, Vol. LL, page 30, appears this item pertaining to Samuel Wright of Lenox:

"Boston, June 10th, 1773.

"Rec'd of Elijah Williams Esq. thirty three pounds two shillings in full for Execution against the following persons: John Holmes, Sheffield, Daniel Taylor, New Marlborough and Sam Wright of Lenox.

"By the hands of Mark Hopkins

"for the Treasurer,

£33 :2

"HARRISON GRAY, JR."

Said receipt is endorsed in the handwriting of Elijah Williams, as follows:

"Provincial Treas Rec't for Bushes (sic) Money."

Mr. Dwight adds: "Undoubtedly Wright was a local constable (collector of taxes). My collection of papers indicate that these Berkshire County constables did not pay the Provincial Treasurer at Boston until after the account was put in the hands of High Sheriff (Colonel Williams). In these days (1773) cash was a scarce article; not only with the masses, but with the classes, as well: the latter collected from the former by force, and these constables held onto the cash until these 'Executions' were put in the hands of Williams."

John Chadwick's Co, Col Brewer's regt: return dated Jan 22d, 1788. residence, Stockbridge, enlisted for town of Stockbridge, mustered by T. Wheeler."

Description list dated Jan. 1st, 1781. Capt. James Means' Co., 2nd Mass. Regiment: Stature, 5 ft 7 inches: complexion, light: hair, brown: residence, Stockbridge. Enlisted Jan. 1st, 1777, by Lieut. Mansfield, at Lee: enlistment during the war.

His name also appears on a committee appointed for observing a day of mourning for the death of George Washington (1799).

"In 1797, John Treat and Daniel Weller of Shoreham, Addison Co., Vermont, and Lucinda Weller, wife of said Weller, for the sum of $300, convey to Samuel Wright of Stockbridge, land lying in Lenox, on the highway that leads to James Richards', being the same that was set off to the widow of Ashbel Treat, late of Lenox."

The fact of Samuel's ownership of this land, also of the land quit-claimed to him by the other heirs of his father in 1791, together with the records of his children's births, and the burial of himself, wife and daughter Mary, in Lenox, lead us to conclude that his residence was in Lenox a part of his life, though he is generally referred to as Samuel Wright of Stockbridge. He appears to have been the only son of Samuel of Lenox who remained near home, all the others removing to Vermont.

Of Samuel's (10) children, we are unable to give but little information. We found the record of births, in Lenox, and besides this a mention of Lydia, Rebecca, Polly, Daniel Ives and Josiah, in the will of their great-aunt, Miss Rebecca Wright, as having a share in her property. There was a deed given by Samuel Wright, Jr., and Ozias Wright, both of Lenox, Sept. 14th, 1809. Also a release of mortgage on same property, Aug. 15th, 1811, by Samuel and Ozias of Pompey, New York. This was also signed by Samuel's wife Lucina or Lovina Fuller Wright. Lydia Wright (single woman) gave bond, as guardian of Josiah Wright, son of Samuel of Stockbridge, 1814.

Battles engaged in not mentioned.

Residence of soldier at enlistment, Lenox, Mass.

Date of application for pension, July 24th, 1832.

Residence at date of application, Shoreham, Addison Co., Vermont.

Age at date of application, sixty-nine.

He went to Shoreham, Addison Co., Vt., in May, 1785; returned to Lenox in the fall, and moved his family to Shoreham the next spring, taking his next younger brother, Ebenezer with them. At this time he had a wife, Jerusha, and three little children, Jerusha, Andrew and Elizabeth. He settled about one mile east of "Richville," which was then called "Hackleburny," on an eminence which commands a beautiful view of the surrounding country.

The first house which he built was on the south side of the road adjoining what is now "East Shoreham Cemetery." This house was built of logs, but later he built a frame house on the opposite side of the road, and it was standing until a few years ago, when it was destroyed by fire.

The land for the "God's Acre" was given by Andrew to the town, and in this plat he lies buried, with many of his descendants and kinsmen near him.

The inscription on his grave-stone reads:

ANDREW WRIGHT
 ONE OF THE FIRST SETTLERS OF SHOREHAM
 DIED MARCH 8TH, 1833, AGED 70 YEARS
 FATHER OF 13 CHILDREN, 59 GRAND-CHILDREN
 AND 16 GREAT-GRAND-CHILDREN.

There are no records of his children's births in Shoreham, but from his descendants we have found the names of eight of them. It is supposed the others died when young.

THE CHILDREN OF ANDREW WRIGHT (11).

Samuel Wright Sheldon was born in Addison Co., Vermont, Jan. 15th, 1806. He moved with his parents to Steuben Co., New York, in 1812. He moved with his wife to Spring, Pa., in 1832, where the land was covered with a dense forest. He and his father, Arad Sheldon, built the first saw-mill in that country, hewing it all out with axes.

He walked to Pittsburg, Pa., 100 miles, to buy the saw; sent it home by freight on the Pittsburgh and Erie Canal. He walked back home as the passage on the canal was too slow. He raised eight children and in time purchased a large amount of land.

He, with his wife, traveled quite extensively. They lived and died on the first farm purchased by them when they arrived in Spring, Pa. He died Nov. 26th, 1896, aged nearly 91 years.

(26) Hiram Sheldon was one of the early settlers of Crawford Co., Pa., moving westward from Vermont. He was an honored and much respected citizen of the town in which he lived, and early in life identified himself with the Baptist Church, of which he remained a member until his death.

He was so intensely interested in the education of his children that he stopped at no obstacle in giving them all a fair education. It can well be said of him in the following homely lines:

"A man of sterling worth, who filled his place on earth:

The Lord he knew, and served him, too; and to his fellow-man was true."

- (80) Wilbur J. Sheldon, M.D., was graduated in Medicine and Surgery in 1893, at Cincinnati, Ohio. Since that time he has practiced his chosen profession in Springboro, Pa.

For the past few years he has devoted himself exclusively to the treatment of liquor and drug habits, and the enviable reputation which Dr. Sheldon's Sanitarium has obtained is due to his efforts and ability in the treatment of those suffering from those addictions.

Dr. Sheldon is a man of highest character and reputation, faithful, earnest and takes a personal interest in those who come under his care. His influence for good has been most marked and his success in curing unfortunates has brought him the highest encomium on every hand.

- (68) Wallace B. Sheldon, youngest son of Hiram Sheldon, was educated as a teacher, and after teaching for some time changed his occupation to that of traveling salesman. This he followed for many years. He is a Christian man and deeply interested in the welfare of the unfortunate man or woman who, through drink or drugs, has missed the high mark of being their best in life, and in 1910, by his untiring efforts, established in his home town (Springboro, Pa.), the Springboro Sanitarium, one of the greatest institutions in the country for the treatment of the liquor and drug habits.

The success of this institution is verified by the many homes made happy by having husbands or sons restored to clean and up right living. His son, Earl D. Sheldon, is a musician of note, having been with the National Soldiers' Home Band for over two years. The eldest daughter, Winifred, is a graduate of the Pennsylvania College of Music, and is a fine singer.

Elizabeth Wright Treadway (17) was familiarly called "Aunt Betsey," and was a woman of much force of character, bringing up her large family to become useful citizens. In her old age she related many stories of the early days, when the country was new. She told how her father, Andrew, went to Pittsford horseback, to get some little pigs, bringing them home in his saddle-bags, one on each side of the horse, and that the children had to "watch out," so the bears would not steal them out of the log pig-pen.

Parker Tyler Stickney, b. Dec. 3d, 1861; m. Nancy Bessy, Jan. 31st, 1887; no children.

William Wirt Stickney (132) was educated in the common schools and Newton Academy, Shoreham, Vt., his native place, and afterwards attended the academies in Bakersfield and Brandon, Vt. He commenced the study of law in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in 1854, graduating in 1855.

He then went to a law school in Poland, Ohio, and in June, 1856, was admitted to the bar at Flint, Mich. Locating in Lapeer, he continued in active practice until elected Circuit Judge in 1881, which office he held until 1888, when he again resumed active practice.

He held several other offices, the gift of the people, which he filled with ability and strict fidelity to the trust reposed in him. Judge Stickney was a congenial companion and an entertaining host. His presence and personality were attractive; and his quiet dignity and gentleness warmly endeared him to his intimate associates.

He was a lover of home, and for half a century his path took him through the same gate. It can truly be said of him that:

“His life was gentle, and the elements so mixed in him

That Nature might stand up and say to all the world ‘This was a man.’”

His was a peaceful end. “Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him, and lies down to pleasant dreams.”

Jonathan Wright (18) was captain of the Vermont State Militia, 4th Co., 3d Regiment, 1st Brigade, 3d Division.

He received his commission March 7th, 1826, from Gov. Cornelius P. Van Ness, taking his oath of office prescribed by law, before Col. Hiram Everest. He was honorably discharged in Salisbury, Vt., Sept. 5th, 1827, by Brig. Gen. James L. Morton.

He was a member of Mt. Independence Lodge, F. & A. M., in Orwell, Vt.

His first wife's mother, Letitia Powers, married, second, Barnabas Ames, and she was the "Grandma Ames" whose stories and quaint sayings have been handed down in the families of her descendants.

- (176) WILLIAM P. WRIGHT, son of Jonathan (18) and Sally P. Wright.
 Born Dec. 1st, 1816, in Shoreham, Vt.; d. Nov. 6th, 1892, in Whiting, Vt.
 Married Mary Jane Fletcher, May 12th, 1841, in Shelburn, Vt.; she died April 25th, 1881, in Whiting, Vt.
 Residence, Whiting, Vt.

CHILDREN

- John Fletcher Wright*, b. April 1st, 1842; d. Oct. 3d, 1849.
- (182) William Henry Wright, b. Aug. 25th, 1843, in Shoreham, Vt.
- (183) Gertrude Jerusha Wright, b. April 9th, 1847, in Whiting, Vt.

William Powers Wright M.D., (176) (1816-1892) lived in his youth in the family of his cousin, Dr. Dan S. Wright, of Whitehall, New York, helping the doctor in his drug store and studying medicine with him.

In 1836, he entered the "Vermont Academy of Medicine" in Castleton, studying there until the College discontinued, when he went to Pittsfield, Mass., and entered "Berkshire Medical Institution," Aug. 23d, 1838. After receiving the degree of Doctor of Medicine in 1839, he settled on his late father's farm in Shoreham, Vt., remaining here five years, and practicing his profession. Here he brought his bride, in May, 1841, and here his two sons were born. He removed to Whiting, Vt., in the spring of 1846, where he practiced medicine the remaining forty-six years of his life.

His wife, M. Jane, was a daughter of Samuel Fletcher of Shelburn, Vt., and was a lineal descendant of Robert Fletcher, who emigrated from England to America in 1630.

The personality of Dr. Wright was a strong and sterling one. Ever honorable and upright, he was respected by all who knew him. As a man, he was frank, loyal, conscientious and just, and, withal, kind-hearted. For nearly half a century he had been a "beloved physician" in the town of Whiting.

As a citizen, he possessed the confidence and respect of his townsmen. For over 45 years he held the office of town clerk and treasurer of Whiting and represented the town in the Legislature of 1851-2.

He was a staunch Republican and a strong temperance man, having been a member of the "Sons of Temperance" many years ago. His influence and vote helped to pass the "no license" law which was on the statute books of Vermont for over fifty years, and was passed with but one majority.

Dr. Wright was educated in the district and "select" schools of Whiting and in Brandon Seminary. He studied dentistry in Middlebury, Vt., and has been in active practice of this profession for forty-eight years, in Brandon, Vt., where he settled in February, 1865. He is a member of and deacon in the Congregational Church in this town. Has also been a member of the Church Committee and its chairman for a number of years.

Dr. Wright was one of the founders of the Cloud County Bank, of Concordia, Kansas, and has been either vice-president or president of this bank for twenty-five years, and has also filled the same offices in the First National Bank of Brandon for more than fifteen years. Is largely interested in farming and real estate. Was elected member of the House of Representatives from Brandon for the sessions of the Vermont Legislature for 1912-1914. Has recently become a member of the Sons of the American Revolution. Is a Knight Templar.

Ebenezer Wright (12) was born in Lenox, Mass., April 29th, 1765. He was the youngest child of his mother, Mary Wright, who died when he was two years old. He moved to Shoreham, Vt., with his brother Andrew and family, in the spring of 1785, and after his marriage to Lucretia Wood settled on a farm about one mile north of Richville (which was then called Hackleburny), and died there in the home of his son, Myron W. C. Wright, in 1845. Among his descendants were a number of men of marked ability.

He is said to have been well liked in the community in which he lived, and was familiarly called "Uncle Neezer" by his friends.

His second wife had no children, but was the only grandmother the second generation knew, and used to tell them stories of seeing Washington and Lafayette.

Charles Grandison Williams (244) was born at Royalton, Niagara Co., New York, Oct. 18th, 1829. He was of New England parentage. Was educated in the country schools, later entering Genesee Wesleyan Seminary at Lima, N. Y.

He studied law in the office of Judge George Bowen of Lockport, N. Y., removing to Rochester, N. Y., in 1852, where he was admitted to the bar in 1855. Here in the same year he married Miss Harriet Gregg.

He had but fairly entered upon the practice of law when he received a liberal offer from the late Judge Noggle of Janesville, Wis., to go west and take charge of Mr. Noggle's business on his elevation to the bench. This gave Mr. Williams a rare opportunity to at once enter upon a lucrative practice.

Two months after he reached Janesville his wife died, and he subsequently married the eldest daughter of Judge Noggle, who was the mother of his two children.

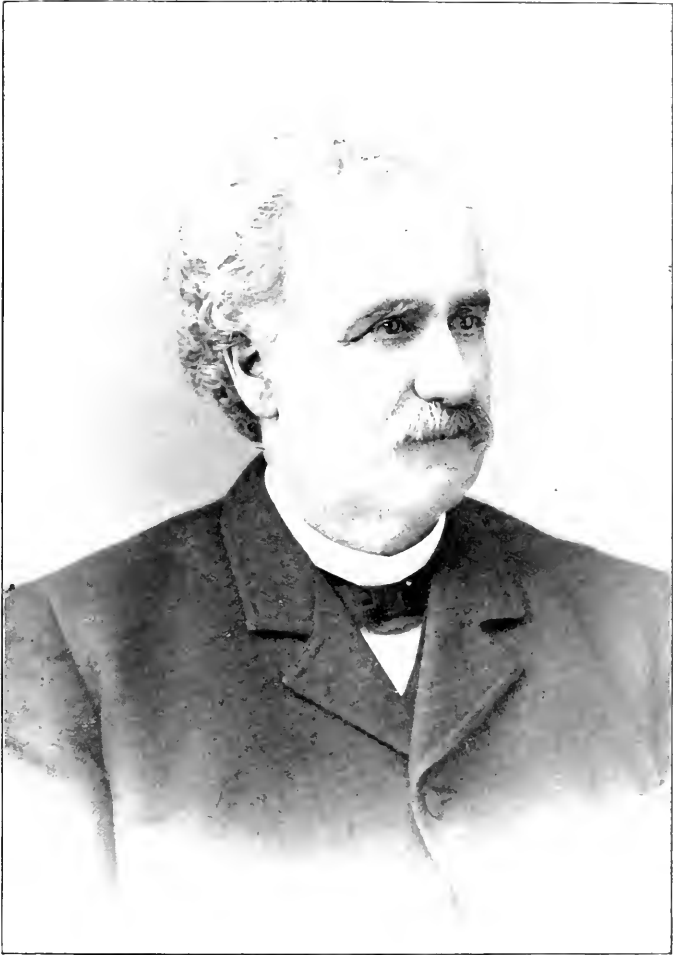

Mr. Williams' political career opened almost simultaneously with his arrival in Wisconsin. He came into prominence as a speaker of rare force and eloquence.

He was a presidential elector in 1868, and the same year was elected to the State Senate. He was chosen president pro tem., and re-elected to the Senate in 1870; again elected president pro tem., and chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Williams was elected to the Forty-third Congress and re-elected to the Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth, Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh Congress. He was for several years chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and it was owing to his personal efforts that Congress finally voted to refund to Japan the balance of the indemnity fund, which had been for many years a serious menace to the friendship of the two countries.

The appeal that Mr. Williams made to the House of Representatives on behalf of the measure was one of the greatest efforts of his life, and was said to have been one of the greatest made in that Congress, and was immediately followed by a unanimous vote for the return of the money.

Mr. Williams was emphatically a man of the people.

Chas. G. Williams

He was always a friend of the poor and downtrodden, loved liberty, hated oppression and wrong, detested sham and hypocrisy, was aggressive and almost relentless in what he believed to be just and right.

He was defeated for re-election to Congress in the great Republican landslide of 1882, and was at once appointed to succeed Gov. Mellette as Register of the Land Office at Watertown, S. Dak., resigning on the accession of President Cleveland, and being re-appointed by President Harrison, holding the office until his death at Watertown, March 30th, 1892.

Horace Williams (253) had no advantages in early life, but through his own efforts became a well informed man; was blessed with native sense, good judgment and high moral perceptions. He won the esteem of all who penetrated his modest reserve and knew him intimately.

Industrious and persevering, he gained a comfortable independence which was lost by an unfortunate move, late in life. His habit of industry never flagged, and on his seventieth birthday he sawed and split a cord of wood.

He began life as a farmer, in Brandon, Vt., and later lived in Orwell and Shoreham, Vt. He was an expert sheep-shearer, and was associated with breeders of French Merino sheep, accompanying them on several selling trips to Wisconsin, to which state he moved in May, 1855, renting land in Cold Spring, Jefferson Co., near White-water.

Here he later purchased a farm which he sold in 1859 and went to La Grange, Walworth Co., living there until 1878, when he returned to Benson, Vt., and purchased a large farm, expecting one or more of his sons to come and live with him, but they were not content to live in a remote rural district and the farm passed from his ownership.

In the meantime, his sons became established in business in Dubuque, Iowa, and he joined them in that place.

Though not affiliated with any church, Mr. Williams and his wife accepted the Universalist faith, and lived exemplary lives, seeking to rear their children to become worthy citizens.

His wife, Olive Delano, was a descendant of Philip de la Noye, a Huguenot who came to this country on the ship "Fortune" in 1621 and joined the Plymouth colony.

Philip's son, Jonathan, was the father of Jonathan (2) whose son, Nathan, was the father of Abisha, father of Clark Delano, the father of Olive Delano Williams.

Joseph Wright (13), born in Lenox, Mass., moved first to Shoreham, Vt., afterwards lived for a number of years in Pittsford, Vt., from which place he moved to Enosburg, Vt., in 1811, spending the remainder of his life in that town. He built the first grist-mill in the southeast part of the town in 1812. Grain was ground in it during the War of 1812.

"He was an honest miller. He measured every grist in his half-bushel, stopping the mill between each grist, if bolted; after stopping the mill, he would turn the bolt by hand with a crank made for that purpose, and clean it out—thus giving each man his own grist and all of it. An old Dutchman once employed to tend his mill, being annoyed by the frequent lack of marks and strings on the bags, gave his customers appropriate notice by writing on the door in bold hand:

'Attend and hear de miller sing—
Mark de bags, and put on de good string
For dat be one good ting.'

"The Congregational Church in Enosburg was organized Oct. 11th, 1811, and Joseph Wright was one of the charter members. His wife belonged to the Baptist Church. Mr. Wright went to meeting on foot for twenty years—3½ miles—and was there in all weathers, which is characteristic of his descendants still with us."—Quotation from "Hemenway's Vermont Gazetteer."

His grandson, now living, says that his "grandfather always rode horseback to church," in his remembrance.

(313) Joseph A. Wright, b. Oct. 5th, 1836.

Joseph Wright, Jr., (304) followed the business of his father, grinding grain in the old mill during the early part of his life, then settled on a timber farm one-half mile from the old mill.

A small block house was built in the midst of the forest and a few acres of timber cleared away which formed a nucleus for a New England home.

Each year added to the field of cleared land and in the course of time the forest gave place to a beautiful meadow and fields of growing grain. A new frame building was added to the block house, and later a small addition was attached to its side with a low slanting roof, which afforded a fine scaffolding for the children when picking apples from the trees overhanging the roof.

In this home the children were born and their mother, Eunice, died. The family afterwards removed to Montgomery, Vt.

(310) GEORGE W. WRIGHT, son of Joseph, Jr., (304) and Eunice A. Wright.

(315) Eugene S. Wright, b. Feb. 26th, 1878, in Montgomery, Vt.

George W. Wright (310) was born in Enosburg, Vt., and at the age of twenty-one years removed to Montgomery, Vt., where he still resides. He settled in the section of the town known as "East Hill," purchased a tract of wild land covered with heavy forest, which he cleared, carving out a farm from the "primeval wilderness." Here his two sons, William J., and Eugene S., were born.

In the year 1890, he retired from the farm and moved into the village of Montgomery Center.

(314) WILLIAM J. WRIGHT, son of George W. (310) and Mary J. Wright.

William J. Wright (314) was educated in Brigham Academy in Bakers-field, Vt., and in Vermont Academy in Saxtons River, Vt.

He afterwards served as clerk for two years in a store in his native village, and three years in a general store in North Troy, Vt.

In Sept., 1897, he opened a grocery and general store in Montgomery Center, Vt., building the store he now occupies on Main street, in 1908. It is the largest general store off the line of railroad in northern Vermont. He has a storehouse at East Berkshire depot. He is a Republican and has served the party as delegate in county, district and state conventions.

He was appointed postmaster in 1897, when William McKinley was President. Is a member of Masonic Union Lodge No. 16, in Troy, Vt., and a R. A. M. of Lafayette Chapter No. 4, of Enosburg, Vt. He is also a member of Enosburg Lodge No. 63, I. O. O. F., and of Court Green Mountain, I. O. O. F. Is president of the Trout River Company, a mercantile corporation in Montgomery Village. Has been town treasurer since 1898, with the exception of two years.

His religious preference is Baptist. Possessing agreeable manners and an accomodating disposition, he is highly esteemed, and is a good type of the rising young business man of Vermont.

Dorothy May Wright, b. May 17th, 1909.

- (311) LOVINA WRIGHT, the second daughter of Joseph Wright, Jr., (304) wrote a little poem about the old home, which we give below, at the request of her brother, Joseph Avery Wright (313):

MY CHILDHOOD'S HOME.

- “My earliest home—what place so dear
 As that where first I drew my breath?
 Where first I shared a parents love,
 That love that ceaseth not 'till death.
- “Where first my infant mind began
 To strengthen, and in knowledge grow,
 Where first I learned to lisp her name
 Who soon in death was laid so low.
- “Where is she now? My mother sleeps
 In yonder graveyard's lone retreat:
 Above her grave no willows wave:
 No flowers of beauty, soft and sweet.
- “My childhood's home—how sweet the name,
 How many memories 'round thee cling,
 Of other days, when life to me
 Was like the young and joyous spring.
- “No stately mansion there did rise,
 With richly furnished rooms, 'tis true;
 It was an humble country home,
 And quite retired from public view.
- “But that dear, lowly, sheltering roof,
 With apple trees close by the door:
 The garden, too, and then the spring,
 From whence the limpid waters pour.

“And numerous things, the meadows green,
 The tall old mountains towering high;
 Around my heart are still entwined
 With many a strong yet tender tie.

“O, yes! my lovely childhood’s home,
 Thou yet art very dear to me;
 And while my memory I retain,
 I still shall love to think of thee.”

Gideon Wright (14) wrote "A Short Memorial of My Life," from which we give extracts, omitting births of children, etc.:

"I, Gideon Wright, was born in Lenox, in the County of Berkshire, State of Massachusetts, on April 17th, 1775. I was brought up there until I was in my fifteenth year.

"My father died in October and the April that I was fifteen I went to Shoreham, Vermont, to live with my brother Andrew. I lived with him till Dec., 1792. And Jan. 10th, 1793, I was married to Abigail Bloomer, who was born in —, Duchess County, State of New York." (Samuel, Wolsey and Hannah were probably born in Duchess Co.)

"March 15th, 1799, we moved to Hinsburgh, in county of Chittenden. Oct., 1800, we moved to Richmond." (Seven children were born there.)

"September, 1801, I joined with the 'Congregational Church of Christ' in its first formation. In Dec., I had my children baptized. My wife joined the church, Dec., 1802.

“October 19th, 1816, we sold our farm, and May 19th, 1817, we sat out for Ohio. Tuesday, May 27th, we lost a horse in —, New York. And Wednesday, the 28th, I parted with the last of my relations. And Thursday the 29th, we came to Cherry Valley, where we spent several days visiting my wife’s relations. June 2nd, we sat out again and came on to Portland, where one of our horses was so lame that we could proceed no farther. And we stayed there five days, and then swapped the horse for a yoke of oxen (I gave fifty dollars to boot), and then proceeded on our toilsome journey, and came to Goshen, on little Darby, July 21st. We stayed there till September, then moved ten miles to the town of Pleasant. Nov. 6th, 1817, I entered a quarter section of land in Turtle Creek Township, Ohio, moved on it March 2nd, A. D. 1818.”

When Gideon Wright started on his “toilsome journey,” he was accompanied by his wife and seven children, the eldest eighteen, and the youngest two years of age. In his “Memorial” he writes: “Feb. 27th, 1844, my wife died after a declining state of health of about 20 years.” Notwithstanding all the hardships of those early years, Gideon’s children obtained an education sufficient to fit them for teaching, as Hannah, William, John and Alma, perhaps Mary, all taught school. Gideon was a strong old man, carrying on some of his land after he was eighty years of age. About 1855, when he was eighty years of age, he had a land warrant, and wanted to go to Kansas and take up 160 acres of land and improve it. He had his wagon all packed to go, when it began to rain and rained three days, making the roads too heavy for traveling, and his children finally persuaded him to remain at home. His youngest brother, Josiah, started with him on his journey to Ohio, in 1817, but went on ahead when Gideon was delayed by the loss of his horse, and settled in Morgan county, where he died soon after 1866, leaving no account of his father's family, and was a great help in children. A letter which he wrote in 1865 gives a good looking up this history.

Albina Wright Fulton (381) was left motherless at the age of seventeen years. With the help of her father, she cared for five brothers and five sisters, all younger than herself, and later on helped to care for her aged grandfather. Her sister says: "She had to mother all of us. She could not have times like other girls, but just had to stay home and work and manage. We loved her and obeyed her but we must have been a lot of bother." Her qualities of motherhood were so great, that after the death of her husband, she adopted a little homeless girl, gave her her own name, and made her her heir. She wrote a number of poems, some of which were published in the local paper.

(389) ROBERT N. WRIGHT, son of William (379) and Caroline B. Wright.

Born April 28th, 1845, in Sidney, Ohio; died Aug. 5th, 1870, in Sidney, Ohio.

Robert N. Wright (389) was a young man of more than ordinary excellency of character. In his twenty-first year he became a member of the U. P. Congregation of Sidney, Ohio. His profession was accompanied by a quiet and upright life, being very conscientious in the discharge of every duty. He entered Westminster College in 1866, graduated June 30th, 1870. While at college, by his gentlemanly and christian deportment, he won the confidence and esteem of his professors, and was beloved by his fellow-students.

As a scholar, he was thorough; as a friend, true; as a companion, agreeable, and as a christian, sincere and earnest.

He intended to have entered Xenia Theological Seminary, in the fall of 1870, but his work was finished, and he entered upon the rest which "remaineth for the people of God."
